

The ILO Turin Centre's facilities

Located in an attractive park on the banks of the River Po, the Centre's campus provides a congenial environment in which to live and study.

- It contains 21 pavilions with fully equipped modern classrooms, conference halls and meeting rooms fitted out for multilingual simultaneous interpretation, a computer laboratory, and a computerized documentation centre linked to various data banks.

The campus has 287 study/bedrooms, all with private bathrooms, telephones and cable television. It also has:

- a reception desk open 24 hours a day;

- a restaurant, a self-service canteen and a coffee lounge, all catering for international dietary needs;
- a bank;
- a travel agency;
- a laundry service;
- a post office;
- an internet point;
- a recreation room;
- facilities for outdoor and indoor sports;
- an infirmary.

Social events are regularly held both on and off campus, so that participants from different cultural backgrounds can make the most of a stimulating international environment.

Governing migration at local level

Context

In a global context of human mobility and rapid urbanisation, where more than half of the world's population lives in urban areas, local and regional authorities find themselves at the forefront in addressing the challenges and opportunities arising from migration.

Successful governance of migration in subnational level requires not only good political will, but also a delicate sustainable and participative approach in which local and regional administrations can develop and implement effective policies. This course aims to maximize the potential of migration for local development supporting stakeholders, local & regional representatives of public administration and academics.

To achieve efficient sustainable policies, it is very important to have empirical evidence of social and economic trends to reach actual demands, according to their degree of decentralization, financial resources, functions of local governments and knowledge of the integration between migration and development.

This course guides participants to discover and understand the main topics concerning migration and development through a practical approach and a delicate explanation of its concepts, its challenges and opportunities, roles of the main actors in development area, migrant's empowerment and entrepreneurship, cooperation and linkages between stakeholders and actors in migration.

Adopting a flexible and comprehensive approach, this course aims to reinforce the capacities of local stakeholders to mainstream migration into local policies in order to better harness the development potential of migration and provide adequate services and protection for migrants.

Objectives

- Develop the understanding of the linkages between migration and development at the international, national and local level and their contextualisation of local realities;

- reinforce the capacities of local actors in planning and implementing coherent frameworks for M&D at the local level;
- identify all relevant stakeholders and operationalizing partnerships to increase the impact and sustainability of local M&D initiatives;
- expose stakeholders to a comprehensive informative and learning tool including research and literature;
- provide concrete tools for the institutionalisation and territorialisation of the M&D Nexus and the related actions and policies at local level;
- be able to design reliable local development policies which integrate migration.
