RURAL DEVELOPMENT ACADEMY

THE FUTURE OF WORK IN RURAL ECONOMIES

OVERVIEW

SNAPSHOT OF THE COURSE

The world of work is undergoing major transformative changes driven by globalization, technological innovations, and demographic shifts, but also by rising inequalities and climate change. These and other megatrends have an impact on the rural economy, which accounts for more than two in five of the world's workers, many of them living in poverty and informality and relying on agriculture, particularly small-scale agricultural activities, for their livelihoods.

Unleashing the potential of decent and sustainable jobs in the rural economy and making rural areas more attractive to youth is essential to respond to these challenges and to promote sustainable development and inclusive economic growth. Therefore, and as recognized in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the promotion of decent work in the rural economy is key to eradicating poverty and ensuring that the nutritional needs of a growing global population are met.
