ENTERPRISE FORMALIZATION: POLICIES AND PRACTICES

OVERVIEW

SNAPSHOT OF THE COURSE

Out of every 5 persons employed in the world, 3 are working in the informal economy. Globally, 4 out of 5 economic units are informal. While the informal economy provides a living to many people, it also poses serious challenges.

Informal enterprises contribute to economic and social development through activities that are not protected, regulated, recognized or valued. This generates unfair competition to formal business and leaves a majority of informal economy workers and their families outside the benefits of public policy.

How to measure informality and promote and facilitate the transition of businesses from informal to formal? Join this unique workshop to equip yourself with a comprehensive understanding of enterprise formalization strategies and adapt them to your specific context.
