ONLINE   LABOUR MIGRATION

E-LEARNING ON LABOUR MIGRATION GOVERNANCE AND COHERENCE WITH EMPLOYMENT POLICIES

18 MAY – 26 JUNE 2020
🕐 6 WEEKS, 60 HRS

Information Note

ITC ILO
International Training Centre

BACKGROUND

The growing impact of migration on the world of work is testing current migration management systems. There is an emerging concern for the need to better coordinate migration and labour migration policies with those of employment, education and training. This requires cooperation between national education and labour ministries and with other ministries that have responsibility for migration policy, as well as their counterparts across borders.

This online training will build and strengthen the capacities of practitioners and policy makers to design and implement labour migration policies through access to tools and instruments for evidence-based policy making on labour migration and ensuring policy coherence. The training will offer an innovative e-learning platform for open dialogue between participants from various ministries, workers' and employers' organizations representatives and other relevant stakeholders to build their capacity and skills to promote policy coherence at national and regional level with regards to labour migration.

This specialized course enables you to join a virtual global network of labour migration practitioners flexibly and without needing to travel.

KEY FEATURES

- LEARN DIFFERENTLY: Integrated e-learning
- THREE PHASES: Learning begins at own pace, continues through high-quality, engaging "real time" sessions and ends with an individual assignment
- PEER-TO-PEER ASSESSMENT: Critical insights from labour migration experts

INTRODUCTION TO THE COURSE

The course is timely given that many countries are embarking on the development of their national migration or labour migration polices. In addition, there is a worldwide push to move towards coherent and evidence based policy-making. These two factors justify the organization of this online training on Labour Migration Governance and Coherence with Employment Policies.

This training is designed to build the capacities of key stakeholders dealing with labour migration in developing fair and effective labour migration governance frameworks, institutions and services to protect migrant workers.

By taking part in this online training, participants will be empowered to successfully contribute to their respective countries'/organizations' policies while having a direct impact on how policies are developed and implemented.

The training will be practical and build on the extensive knowledge of the ILO in research methodologies and approaches relating to effective policies in the context of the decent work agenda. It will also build on the extensive and recognized technical knowledge of the ILO on labour migration governance. The online course is intended to provide practical and succinct guidance primarily on the process to be undertaken by key stakeholders to assist in the development or revision of a national labour migration strategy, policy and/or action plan. During the training, participants will also learn from the ILO practical guidance on promoting coherence among employment, education/training and labour migration policies formulated by the ILO. The training will provide information on how labour migration issues may interact with other national and regional policy priorities, including employment, education, vocational training, social protection and gender equality/non-discrimination. Participants will learn best practices in governing labour migration.

WHO ATTENDS THIS COURSE?

The course is designed for officials and practitioners from Ministries dealing with migration, officials and practitioners from Ministries of Labour, representatives of employers and workers' organizations, staff of regional and international organizations, and NGOs staff. Participants should be involved in decision-making directly or in an advisory capacity and are interested in applying the ILO guidelines and approach on fair and effective governance of labour migration.

Course learning materials and tuition will be offered online in English. The following requirements are therefore essential to participate in this course:
• The ability to use and access a computer with internet
• Written knowledge of English
