ADVOCACY AND COMMUNICATION FOR SOCIAL PROTECTION

OVERVIEW

SNAPSHOT OF THE COURSE

How can you become an agent of change to advance the social protection agenda? Advocacy and communication are essential to establish a rights-based culture of social protection, to inform policy-making, and to ensure that programmes are aligned with international standards and meet people's needs. Well-coordinated advocacy is pivotal if countries are to take the 'high-road' towards universal social protection. This course will enable you articulate what needs to change and why. It will teach you how to better plan your advocacy and communication efforts. It will help you to find your voice to persuasively convey your vision and make change happen.
